

Greetings from Clemson!

We hope 2016 is off to a great start for you and your family. It has been a terrific year to be a Clemson Tiger!

On January 11, our Tigers and fans lit up the University of Phoenix Stadium, and while we did not bring home the National Championship trophy, we are "winners" in every sense of the word. I am so proud of our players, coaches and fans! This season was one for the books. Clemson has the greatest fans in the world, and we are grateful for your loyalty and dedication to this University.

This year brings many opportunities to serve others. We will honor Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s legacy with a day of service on Monday, January 18, beginning at 8:00 a.m. Click here to see a full list of special events that will continue throughout the week.

Emily Wallace '72 and her husband, Jack, have established an endowed scholarship through the College of Engineering and Science. The scholarship targets groups who are underrepresented in science, technology, engineering and math. "As a manager in technology, I know it's hard to find women in technical backgrounds," Wallace said. "But it's not just women. It can be hard to find men, too. I'm trying to encourage more students in technical backgrounds." Learn more about the Wallace's commitment to help students today and in the future.

Donors like Rob and Patricia Randall are what keep this beloved University thriving. Throughout their graduate work, the Randalls were deeply impacted by the Clemson Family. The couple continues to be impacted by the University, which has led them to establish a significant planned gift. Just as Anna Calhoun and Thomas Green Clemson had a plan to create a "high seminary of learning," the Randalls have a plan to continue to improve the University in perpetuity. Read more.

We have so much to be thankful for and so much to look forward to in the upcoming year. 2015 will be difficult to beat; however, as I look around at all of the excitement taking place on campus — new construction projects, research developments, our students, your kind generosity and support — I can only imagine what will unfold over the next year.
